

Apprenticeship for Industrial Electronics (f/m)

The success of Gehring comes first and foremost from the merit of our employees, who with their expertise, passion and creativity set the standards of the company and represent our customers' interests.

For a team of industrial electronics in our headquarter in Ostfildern (Germany), we are seeking to employ at the earliest date an Apprenticeship for Industrial Electronics (f/m).

Your tasks:

- Good to very good certifications or maturity
- Good grades in mathematics, natural sciences subjects and in technology
- Technical knowledge and comprehension as well as for electrical processes
- Accurate and responsible work
- Communication and team skills and motivation

Your profile

- Provide the necessary knowledge of the profession industrial mechanic
- Practice-oriented training
- Responsible and active tasks from the beginning
- Open corporate culture
- Specific further trainings and opportunities
- Professional perspectives after apprenticeship

Do you like to work with people from different cultures, are committed and tackle challenges resolutely? In addition to a pleasant working environment in a dynamic environment, you will find an exciting work environment with interesting tasks and individual training opportunities.

We are looking forward to your application. Your contact person is Katharina Bauer.

Find our more:

bewerbung@gehring.de

www.gehring-karriere.de/en-hr

